THE 2010 WISHON GOLF LIMITED EDITION SET OF IRONS.....

Could they be yours for Christmas ?

About every five years or so Wishon Golf produce a very special Limited Edition set of irons. This year it is limited to 150 sets and we were fortunate to have secured set No 15.

Each set of 560LTD cavity back irons are forged from carbon steel and the set comprises 3-PW and AW.

Representing Wishon Golf's precise attention to detail, they are finished in an all new, high durability, dark sepia chrome plating, with the unique set number engraved on the hosel of each head.

They come complete with a signed Certificate of Authenticity and are supplied in a cedar presentation box, just in case you don't want to play with them.

But please remember we only have one set, so a first come basis applies.

Can the introduction of all this "new" technology really give you greater distance and accuracy.....

There are now some really fantastic claims being made by all of the major "manufacturers" claiming to give you many more yards off the tee and far greater accuracy.

From one we have "straight flight technology" which concentrates 10% of the head weight towards the heel, to help straighten the face at impact and there was me thinking that everyone did that. What is more confusing are the claims made for its predecessor are better, so why did we need this new model.

Then we have "fusion technology" which exploits extreme weight placement, by using titanium, compression cured carbon fibre, formed aluminium and cast steel. Take away the adjectives and we have a combination of titanium, carbon fibre, aluminium and steel, why the hell couldn't they just say that. Well in fairness I suppose not, because its all been done before.

Now what about "polar weighting" which provides stability, consistency, incredible feel and linear acceleration. Wow that really must be a first.

What is really amazing is that they never talk about shafts, just futuristic heads, which are pretty much all the same.

Of course you could simply click on the Wishon Golf logo on our Home page and listen to the foremost head designer and technician in World golf today.

His video entitled "The Facts of Life about Golf" tells it as it really is.

Gift Vouchers

Buying for golfers is never easy at the best of times, especially if you don't know what they currently have, or what they would like.

To solve the problem we can customise and personalise individual Gift Vouchers, which will be valid for the following twelve months.

The vouchers can then be redeemed for any customised golf equipment.

Or of course you could simply get custom fitted and get it right straight away.....
